

LOCAL NEWS.

CONDITION OF THE BRIDGES OVER THE POTOMAC.—Up to twelve o'clock to-day, the condition of the Long and Railroad bridges over the Potomac river, at Washington, is as follows: The draw and two spans of the Railroad bridge on the Washington side, and the draw and two spans of the Long bridge on the same side, have been carried away by the ice, the freshest seeming to take the Washington channel as a means of escape in preference to the main channel, which is on the Virginia side of the river. Three spans of the Long bridge adjoining that portion of the part carried away—mentioned above, have been underpinned by the ice, on the west side, and are liable to be borne off by any further elevation of the tide. On the southern end of the Long bridge, the abutment, upon which sat the keeper's house, has been injured, the house damaged by the ice which is jammed underneath it, and the two spans connecting the Virginia shore with the rest of the bridge, have been carried away; in fact the whole of the Long bridge has been seriously injured, and a long time will necessarily be consumed in repairing it, if such repair is contemplated. The track of Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown railroad, from the bridge to the Columbian turnpike, has been inundated and washed by the flood which poured over Mason's Island, and the cross ties, in many places, are alone supported by their attachment to the rails.

THROUGH TRAVEL.—The interruption to the travel between this city and Washington, caused by the partial destruction of the bridge over the Potomac, still continues, and is necessarily a source of great inconvenience. The train on the Orange and Alexandria railroad, went out as usual this morning with passengers, however, only from this city—those from the North being unable to reach here in time. The road from Fort Runyon, on the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown railroad, to the Alexandria canal aqueduct, is in such a terrible condition that neither omnibuses nor hacks can be used upon it, and the transportation done over it is altogether by means of light spring wagons. Passengers for the South, who are now in Washington, will be brought from Georgetown, this evening at two o'clock, in wagons of this description, provided for them by the Orange and Alexandria railroad company, to Fort Runyon, and proceed on their journey by the regular train to-night, while passengers for the North will be carried in a similar manner over the same route. The Orange and Alexandria railroad company, have employed the tug boats Gov. Curtin and Katie Wise, to open a track in the Potomac between this city and Washington, so as to permit the transportation of passengers and freight by steamboats, and they started this evening on their short but difficult journey.

THRILLING SCENE.—About four o'clock yesterday evening, while a crowd of one thousand or fifteen hundred people were witnessing the destruction of the Washington end of the Long and Railroad Bridges, over the Potomac River, by the freshest, which was then at its height, a little boy, about eleven years of age, fell from an abutment into the surging flood, which was rushing beneath with the fury of a torrent, and was rapidly borne down the current, whirling around with the eddies in the stream, and alternately above and beneath the surface of the water. In an instant cries of "boy overboard" resounded on all sides, and an intense excitement prevailed among the entire multitude present. At this juncture, Capt. Jerry Robb, of this city, a Potomac fisherman, who was there, endeavoring to cross the bridge, mounted upon a pile of wood on the adjoining wharf, upon which was a skiff, which he immediately threw overboard, and jumping after it, he alighted in it just as it touched the water, and in two minutes he had the little fellow safe in his arms. The Captain with his rescued freight landed a short distance below the bridge, and received the loud plaudits of the spectators.—This is the third person Capt. Robb has saved from drowning.

CANDIDATES.—By reference to the column of the Gazette in which the election notices appear, it will be seen that numerous gentlemen are already announced as candidates for the offices to be filled at the approaching municipal election. We understand that two or three gentlemen are candidates whose cards have not yet been published or advertised. Now this will never do, and in kindness to those gentlemen, and to state that an election to fill an office in this community, is an impossibility without the candidate has his card published as an advertisement. We learn, too, that some gentlemen who desire to attend to the corporation's affairs are deterred by bashfulness from seeking the votes of their fellow citizens; to those we would appropriately quote the following lines,

"Our doubts are traitors,
And make us lose the good we oft
might win,
By fearing to attempt."

PRINCE WILLIAM AFFAIRS.—We regret to learn that Mr. James Purcell, an old and well-known citizen of Prince William county, died suddenly in Brentsville last week. In consequence of the high water in the creeks and runs in the county, and the absence of bridges, the Justices were unable to reach the Court House on Monday last, and no Court was held on that day in Brentsville.

THE FRESHEST.—The freshest in the Upper Potomac is decreasing, and hopes are entertained that the ice may be carried off without doing any more serious damage than has already occurred. In Georgetown, yesterday evening, the water had overflowed Water street—as yet, however, there has been no perceptible rise in the river at this point.

LARGE FOX.—A large fox, caught on the plains of Manassas, by Mr. Jewell, who resides in that vicinity, has been presented by that gentleman to Mr. Martin Maddux of the Mansion House, in this city.

SOUTHERN MAIL.—The Southern mail, due here yesterday evening, did not arrive until this morning.

FROST.—There was a heavy frost, and a slight freeze last night.

RATIONS STOPPED.—We understand that the issue of rations and clothes to the freedmen in this district has been stopped by general orders, and that such assistance as is rendered, that class of our population by the Freedmen's Bureau is by special permission to the officer superintending that department in our city.—Under this special permission rations are still issued to about four hundred, of whom about one hundred are in hospital, and of whom not more than ten or a dozen are men.

THE MASKED BALL.—Active preparations are in progress for the grand masked ball to be given by the Eintracht Association of this city, at their rooms in Washington Hall, to-morrow night. The stage is to be removed from the room in which the theatrical representations are presented, and thus ample space will be allowed the dancers. We understand many tickets have been sold, and an agreeable evening is anticipated.

OYSTERS.—Mr. John Thompson, at his establishment, corner Prince and St. Asaph sts., has received a fresh supply of oysters, of fine quality, from Quantico.

REV. MR. HUNNICUTT.—A lecture will be delivered at the Princess street colored church this evening, on the political subjects of the day, by the Rev. Mr. Hunnicutt.

The satchel which contained the money recently stolen from Mr. Peters, at the depot of the O. & A. R. R. in Washington, has been found in a sewer, but no money in it.

REVOKED.—The order of the County Court suspending T. I. Edelin and J. T. Burnett from acting as special police, has been revoked.

COL. A. G. NEWTON.—That the people of Norfolk appreciate the value of our former townsman, Colonel A. G. Newton, is shown by the following notice concerning that gentleman, published in the Journal of that city:

"On crossing over the river yesterday, the first gentleman we encountered was Colonel A. G. Newton, of the late Atlantic Hotel. It struck us something was at and, and were therefore not surprised to find, as we passed up High street, that Portsmouth was in quite a hubbub of pleasurable excitement; for the rumor had spread and gathered as it went, that the great hotel manager was about to leave the Ocean House for a term of five years. Colonel Newton, it was immediately known all over the neighborhood city, had gone into the hotel, examined it thoroughly, and then returned to Norfolk, to count the cost, consider the probabilities, and make up his mind. We should not be surprised if the inactivity shown in the matter of rebuilding our noble Atlantic, should have produced a sort of 'Hope deferred maketh the heart sick' feeling in the soul of the late manager, and galled by the apathy of the community, he has determined to shake the dust of Norfolk from his sandals, and go over to the gentiles on the other side of the water. We trust that it may not be so; for certainly it would be a severe blow to lose both the hotel and its proprietor. We cannot afford to lose Mr. Newton even to oblige our Portsmouth friends; for he is one of Norfolk's peculiar institutions."

CAMP DISTRIBUTION TO BE SOLD.—It is the intention of the Quartermaster General's Department to dispose of all the buildings belonging to Distribution Rendezvous, near Alexandria, Virginia, in a few days. This place was known during the war as Camp Conquest, and afterwards as Camp Distribution. It has been used throughout the fall and winter, as a depot for the organization of the 44th regiment of colored troops, which is now nine hundred strong, and under orders to proceed southward, and will start as soon as the ice is cleared from the Potomac.—Nat. Int.

POLICE REPORT—MAYOR'S OFFICE.—No cases at the Mayor's Office this morning.

MAGISTRATES' OFFICE.—Richard Tomlinson, arrested under a search warrant, for having in his possession a coat stolen from a negro named Washington Jourdan, was discharged upon the payment of costs.

J. O. Leary, for unlawfully retaining in his possession ten oven lids, the property of Rachel Claget, was discharged, as he had bought the lids.

PRENTICE, of the Louisville Journal, tenders his advice to the public as follows: "Never buy goods of those who don't advertise. They have so little to sell that they have to sell dear. Everybody in Alexandria advertises; everybody here sells cheap—and Prentice's remark don't apply."

HOTEL ARRIVALS.
